sisting. They are currently engaged as licensee of DOST-FNRI Rice Mongo Blend and Rice Mongo Curls. Along with the adoption of the complementary food technologies. Students from Talipan National High School - Technical-Vocational-Livelihood (TNHS-TVL) track was also invited as participants in the seminar-training. A total of 24 participants attended the two-day seminar-training. Participants are mainly staff of QFHPC, students from TNHS-TVL track, and staff and officers from the Office of the Provincial Agriculturist-Quezon. The objective of the activity is to provide information on the basic principles and guidelines on Food Safety Hazards and GMP, in order to further capacitate the staff of the Quezon Food & Herbal Processing Center (QFHPC). As well as to raise awareness on cGMP among the students of

The participants were trained to conduct pretreatment processes on raw materials and dye indigenous fibers using synthetic dyes. An overview of the steps involved in making textiles, including how dyeing procedures may be integrated, was given to the participants. According to DOST-PTRI experts, the dyeing process can be combined with other processes, such as spinning, weaving, and finishing, to create a more efficient production line.

Scouring, bleaching, use of equipment, and chemical formulation, as well as other aspects of the pretreatment process, were described and demonstrated to the participants. Before dyeing, the raw materials were put through the neutralization process. The participants were provided a computation of the chemical formulation to be used during the neutralization process.

The training also covered discussions on the types and differences of synthetic dyes and the method of computing and measuring the amount of chemicals needed to dye indigenous fibers. Participants underwent a hands-on exercise on dyeing buri leaves and rattan. Precautionary measures on handling chemicals and the use of equipment were observed during the training.

Characteristics of buri, including its economic and industrial importance, were explained to the participants. As the largest native palm species in the Philippines, buri reaches a height of 20 meters, with trunks attaining a diameter of about 1 meter. In Batangas City alone, the abundance of buri led to the production of handicrafts such as bags, baskets, and mats, all from buri leaves.

Technical experts from the DOST-PTRI facilitated the technology training. Ms. Mylene S. Dacuya, Science Research Specialist II, was the lead resource person, while Mr. Samilo Garcia, Science Aide, was the training assistant. Engr. Charmaine Pearl Aquino and Ms. Charmaine P. Valdez, also from DOST-PTRI, served as training facilitators.

More than 2,000 fisherfolk in Rosario were given food packs over the weekend. Each pack contains 20 pieces of canned goods, coffee, and 5 kilograms of rice.

In Tanza, at least 1,000 boat owners received ₱5,000 on Monday.

SMC said the cash aid will be given to fisherfolk beneficiaries until the dredging operation is completed in the area, which could last up to a year and a half.

Point persons will also connect with fishermen in case the vessel

Boskalis, SMC's contractor, causes damage to their fishing nets. The damaged nets will be replaced as soon as possible.

SMC is also commissioning a study to increase the fish population in waters off Cavite. (CNN Philippines' correspondent Kaithreen Cruz contributed to this report.)

The techno-demo for onion production was a collaboration project among the farmer-cooperator, the Cavite Farmers' Association, OPA, and the private companies that provided the seeds and fertilizer. CFA purchased the Red Thunder seeds from Chia Tai Corp. while the Super Pinoy variety was purchased by Mr. Edwin Ferrer. OPA provided technical assistance and vermicast while Gemini Agri-Farm Solutions Corp. company provided free foliar fertilizer. These partner private companies likewise provided technical assistance in monitoring the growth of the onions.

Other techno-demo farms for onion production in Cavite are located in the municipalities of Silang, General Mariano Alvarez and Maragondon. (PICAD)

Less food waste means more food security

FILIPINO households do not consume all the food on their dining tables, and the resulting wastage has grown into a problem that requires serious attention.

This finding is highlighted in the 2018 Expanded National Nutrition Survey conducted by the Department of Science and Technology's Food and Nutrition Research Institute (FNRI).

According to the study, rice, vegetables and meat are the three most wasted foods in Filipino households. The bigger the household, the higher the waste. And rural households squander more food than their urban counterparts.

By signing up with an email address, I acknowledge that I have read and agree to the Terms of Service and Privacy Policy.

In terms of income class, households in the highest one-fifth or quintile had a bigger wastage than the poorest quintile.

"This implies that households incur more wastes when higher quantities are purchased, which most probably are not consumed and end up being thrown away due to spoilage," the FNRI noted.

The study reflects a glaring disconnect: millions of Filipinos go hungry every year, but the average Filipino wastes 86 kilograms of food annually. The vast amounts of food that go uneaten and thrown away would have been enough to feed hungry stomachs.

Food waste is a global malaise. By one estimate, as much as 40 percent of food, or 2.5 billion tons, around the world is wasted every year. The wastage is enough to feed 3 billion people.

Food waste impacts the environment as well, and is already recognized as one of the drivers of climate change. Estimates suggest that 8 to 10 percent of greenhouse gas emissions are associated with food that is not consumed.

"The increasing and persistent global demand for food is also driving fertile land useless while contributing to more land degradation and deforestation, which as a result, destroys our precious natural habitats and biodiversity, limiting the services that they provide and disrupting entire ecosystems," according to one study.

The Philippines is struggling with its own food security woes. We ranked 69th among the 119 countries in the Global Hunger Index of 2018, indicating a "serious level of hunger incidence."

Fifteen percent of the population experience "severe food anxiety," the highest rate among five Southeast Asian countries.

Based on monitoring by the World Food Program last year, one out of 10 Philippine households is food insecure. The problem is most acute in the Bangsamoro Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao, Eastern Visayas and Soccsksargen, three of the country's poorest regions.

Addressing food waste must be a multisectoral effort if it is to be effective. The United Nations has made curbing food waste a Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) target. SDG 12.3 aims to cut by half per capita global food waste at the retail and consumer levels, and reduce food losses along production and supply chains by 2030.

In its 2022 State of Food Security and Nutrition in the World report, the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) suggested increasing efforts "to measure food and inedible parts wasted at retail and consumer level and track food waste generation in kilograms per capita at country level."

The World Food Program noted that Filipino households with heads who only had a primary or elementary education "are more likely to be food insecure." That could be a cue for the government to include food security in school curriculums to raise family awareness on managing food needs.

Food manufacturers and dining establishments can do their share by donating surplus food to charitable and social work institutions instead of throwing it out as garbage.

FNRI Director Imelda Angeles-Agdeppa stressed the need for new strategies to focus on reducing plate waste, which is beneficial from a nutritional, economic and environmental point of view.

Training people to prepare and choose less food in terms of portion and meal size reduction and formulating policies on waste reduction could be an effective strategy in preventing additional food waste, Angeles-Agdeppa said.

The FAO is urging governments to rethink how to reallocate their budgets "to make them more cost-effective and efficient in reducing the cost of nutritious foods and increasing the availability and affordability of healthy diets, sustainably and leaving no one behind."

It will be in the Philippines' best interest to heed FAO's suggestion.

Gastroenteritis at Pagtatae

Ang viral gastroenteritis ay maaaring lumabas sa loob ng 1 hanggang 3 araw pagtapos mo magkaroon ng impeksyon.

Ang sakit ay kumakalat sa pamamagitan ng pagkain at pag-inom ng kontaminadong pagkain at inumin. Kadalasan ito ay galing sa fecal-oral route o ang isang tao na may ganitong virus ay hinawakan ang pagkain na iyong kakainin ng hindi naghugas ng kamay pagtapos gumamit ng banyo.

Ang mga sintomas ng gastroenteritis ay:

1. Matubig na pagtatae na walang dugo (kung mayroong dugo indikasyon ito ng ibang impeksyon)
2. Paghihilab at pananakit ng tiyan
3. Pagduduwal at pagsusuka
4. Mababang lagnat

Sa karamihan bumubuti ang pakiramdam ng 1 o 2 araw, ngunit ang iyong dumi ay makahahawa pa rin sa iba hanggang 2 linggo pagtapos na bumuti ang pakiramdam.

Ang seryosong komplikasyon ng gastroenteritis ay dehydration tulad ng:

1. Sobrang pagka-uhaw
2. Dry mouth o panunuyo ng bibig
3. Sobrang dilaw ng ihi o paunti-unti o sadyang walang inilalabas na ihi
4. Sobrang panghihina, pagkahilo at pagkalito

Panatilihin komportable ang sarili at iwasan ang dehydration:

1. Hayaan muna makapahinga ang tiyan. Huwag muna kumain o uminom ng mga ilang oras pagtapos sumuka o magtae.
2. Uminom ng Oral Rehydrating Solution (ORS) at sabaw.
3. Humigop ng tubig. Subukan uminom ng maraming likido araw-araw, humigop ng paunti-unti

4. Kumain ng pakonti-konti. Simulan kumain ng pagkain na madaling matunaw gaya ng crackers, toast, gelayin, saging, kanin at manok. Itigil ang pagkain kung maduduwal.
5. Iwasan ang mga pagkain na kabilang ang mamantika, matataba, kape, alak at spicy foods.

The decree implements the reforms mentioned by the apostolic constitution Praedicate Evangelium, which aims to reform the offices of the Roman Curia.

The document splits the Dicastery for Evangelization into two sections — for Fundamental Questions regarding Evangelization in the World, which is headed by a pro-prefect, Archbishop Salvatore Fisichella, and the second by Cardinal Tagle.

Pope Francis serves as prefect of the dicastery, with authority over the two sections.

The papal decree gives Cardinal Tagle and his successors the authority to control resources headed for mission territories.

The event was attended by seventy (70) graduates from qualifications in the bread and pastry production, culinary arts, and food and beverage services.

Ms. Celina Manabat, Department Head of City Social Services Department, gave the welcome remarks and thanked DTI-Laguna for its continuous support on their activities. Ms. Jean Kristine Torres, the Resource Person for the event, was introduced afterwards. Torres began by explaining what food safety is. She then enumerated the reasons why it is important to address it and the sources of harmful matters in food. The types of hazards were then discussed one by one: physical, chemical, and microbiological. Ways on preventing the aforementioned hazards were expounded. Torres reiterated that not all microorganisms are harmful and that some are beneficial and used on manufacturing food products. Keys to safer foods were mentioned. Participants were reminded that food safety is everyone's business — that is, you should prepare food as if your loved ones are the ones who are going to consume it.

The next part of the program was about packaging and labelling requirements. Definition of label and the rules and regulations on labelling were first mentioned. Torres then gave the list of labelling requirements based on administrative order of Department of Health, citing example on every information required. She also stated the exemptions on nutrition labelling. Lastly, misleading declarations or representations on labelling as well as other requirements for certain food products were tackled.

Mr. Leonardo dela Cruz Jr., Senior Manpower Development Officer, expressed his gratitude on the agency's support on their activities and said that the topics discussed will be of great help to the attendees who are engaged in food industry and are planning to have food business in the future (JKL Torres, DTI-Laguna).

Bocce is one of only three games that Special Olympics Pilipinas (SOP) will be playing in, the other two being swimming and athletics. And for good reason - this sport has a rich history and is enjoyed by athletes all around the world. In fact, Boccia has been contested at the Summer Paralympics since the 1984 Games in New York City and Stoke Mandeville.

What's more, athletes in this sport have cerebral palsy and are given a classification according to the extent of their disability. There are four classes, BC1 through BC4, and the competition is fierce.

We're proud to see our student-athletes from the SPED division stepping up to the plate and showing what they're made of. We believe that everyone, regardless of their abilities, deserves a chance to shine and be celebrated.

So let's cheer on our Imuseno student-athletes as they take on the competition and show what they're capable of. We have no doubt that they'll do us proud and show the world what it means to be a true champion - on and off the court.

You might be wondering, "What is Bocce?" Well, it's a game played indoors on a court similar in size to badminton. Players are positioned at one end in throwing boxes and can throw the jack anywhere on court over the 'V' line. The balls are made of leather and are filled with plastic granules so they do not bounce and are easy to grip.
