Beneficiaries of OFIS's Negosyo Starter Project in Lemery, Batangas undergo food safety seminar

Twenty beneficiaries of Odyssey Foundation Inc.'s (OFI) Negosyo Starter Project in Lemery, Batangas underwent food safety training of the Department of Science and Technology (DOST)-Batangas held at GAD Building, Municipal Compound of Lemery, Batangas, March 10.

OFI's Negosyo Starter Project is a livelihood development strategy that aims to improve the socioeconomic well-being of the identified marginalized beneficiaries. It is a streetfood vending livelihood starter package that will help beneficiaries establish a sustainable self-employment. The package consists of tools, equipment, and products. On the other hand, the Local Government Unit of Lemery will counterpart all other necessary tools and personal protective equipment of the beneficiaries. Hence, to ensure their food safety compliance, DOST-Batangas provided them with a seminar on Basic Food Hygiene (BFH) and Food Safety Hazards (FSH).

The seminar on BFH covered topics on sanitary permits, health certificates, quality and protection of food, primary production, establishment (design of facilities and equipment), training and competence, establishment maintenance, cleaning and disinfection, pest control, personal hygiene, control of the operation, product information and consumer awareness, and the special provisions of P.D. 856.

The categories of food hazards (physical, biological, and chemical), their implications for food processing, and the control mechanisms for food safety risks were covered under FSH. Diagnostic tests were also carried out to evaluate the participants' acquired knowledge.

Proper food handling and proper food servicing operations as required by law, were highlighted during the discussion. Beneficiaries were also reminded of the roles and practices they must always uphold to prevent foodborne diseases in serving the food.

The DOST-CALABARZON Food Safety Team (FST) members, Mr. John Maico M. Hernandez and Mr. Mhark Ellgine A.

Libao, served as resource speakers of the seminar. The DOST Unified Food Safety Training Modules were the reference materials used during the seminar.

Beneficiaries had the project contract signing with OFI and DOST-Batangas representatives and Mayor Ian Kenneth M. Alilio of Lemery, Batangas, right after the seminar. Official turnover of the Negosyo Starter Project is scheduled on the fourth week of March.

Give comfort women their due

Almost 80 years ago, Filipino women in the Central Luzon region were rounded up, brought to an old house called “Bahay na Pula” or Red House in San Ildefonso town, Pampanga province, where they were detained for weeks. Until they were released, says a report by the United Nations’ Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (Cedaw), the women, some in their teens, were “repeatedly subjected to rape, other forms of sexual violence, torture, and inhumane detention conditions.”

Their experiences as “comfort women,” the Japanese euphemism for prostitutes which has come to be applied to victims of institutionalized sexual violence against women in countries under Japanese control during World War II, would come to haunt the women for the rest of their lives. They were forced to “endure long-term physical, psychological, social and economic consequences, including physical injuries, post-traumatic stress, permanent damage to their reproductive capacity, and harm to their social relationships in their community, marriage, and work.” Well, today after decades of struggle for recognition, reparation, and a formal apology from the Japanese government, vindication has come for the “lolos,” the Filipino term for grandmother. But the vindication comes not from the Japanese authorities nor from the Philippine government. Instead, it has come from the Cedaw, an international treaty adopted during a UN general assembly in 1979 which is described as an international bill of rights for women. A few days ago, Cedaw issued a decision finding the Philippines “violated the rights of victims of sexual slavery perpetrated by the Imperial Japanese Army during the World War II by failing to provide reparation, social support and recognition commensurate with the harm suffered.” It called on the government to set up a compensation fund for the victims, create a memorial to preserve the site of the Bahay na Pula, and include the wartime sex slavery in school curriculum as an important part of history.

Previously, the Philippine government had maintained that it is not in a position to claim compensation from Japan after ratifying the Treaty of Peace with Japan in 1956. Despite repeated suits and appeals to the courts, the comfort women’s case was dismissed by the Supreme Court in 2014. They then brought their cause to the attention of Cedaw in 2019.

Cedaw noted that the case is one of “continuous discrimination.” It further pointed out that war veterans, who are mostly men, are entitled to special and esteemed treatment from the government, such as educational benefits, health care benefits, old age, disability, and death pensions—in contrast to the shabby treatment of comfort women. The Committee found that the Philippine government had failed to adopt “appropriate legislative and other measures to prohibit all discrimination against women and protect women’s rights on an equal basis with men.”

As if to add insult to injury, in 2018, personnel of the Department of Public Works and Highways and the city government of Manila “hurriedly dismantled” in the dead of night a bronze statue erected as a tribute to the comfort women. Former president Rodrigo Duterte said the next day that while the monument was “freedom of expression ... it is not the policy of government to antagonize other nations” and it should therefore be placed elsewhere. The statue had been situated by the seawall in Manila Bay, and although it had been funded by private donors, its erection had been cleared with the National Historical Commission.

The removal of the statue took place shortly before an annual summit of the Asian Development Bank, though the Japanese embassy had protested the statue previously. Later, the Manila city government said they removed the statue to conduct a drainage improvement project in the area and said they returned the statue to the sculptor, Jonas Roces.

“Ang nangyari, lumuhod tayo sa mga Hapon (What happened was, we knelt before the Japanese),” said Teresita Ang See of the Kaisa sa Kaunlaran Foundation which led the fundraising effort for the statue. Historian Xiao Chua, who alerted the public about the “missing” statue, called on the public to fight for the return of the monument, saying that the honor of the country was at stake.

A year later, after finding a place for the statue at the Baclaran shrine, the statue was supposed to be installed after Roces was paid to transfer and install the image. But Roces did not show up and neither did the statue. The sculptor then claimed that the statue had been stolen by unidentified men and then he himself disappeared entirely. Who knows if, after the Cedaw finding, the comfort women statue would suddenly be found and erected in a place of honor?

To use a sporting metaphor, the ball is now in the court of the Marcos administration. Will it comply with the Cedaw recommendations or will it continue to deny the “lolos” their rightful share of honor, reparation and justice?

4 Prutas Para Sa Hindi Makarumi

Maraming tao ang hindi makarumi ng regular. Ang tawag dito ay constipation o pagtitibi. Ang pagtitibi ay puwedeng magpalala ng sakit sa puso, luslos at hemorrhoids.

Ang mga buntis, kababaihan at may edad ay madalas hirap makarumi. Hindi namin pinapayo ang pag-inom ng gamot o herbal tea para makarumi. Sa katagalan ay makasasama ito.

May mga prutas na mabisang lunas para sa hindi makarumi. Subukan niyo ang 4 na prutas na nag-uumpisa sa letrang “P”.

1. Pakwan – Ang pakwan ay may taglay na 92% alkaline water. Mataas ito sa vitamin A, Vitamin B, Vitamin C, lycopene at potassium. Ang pagkain ng 2 hiwa ng pakwan sa maghapon ay puwede nang magpalambot ng dumi. May benepisyo din ang pakwan para sa bibig, sikmura at bituka. Makatutulong ito sa may singaw at bad breath (mabaho ang hininga).

2. Papaya – Ang papaya ay napakabisang prutas para sa hindi makarumi. Kapag kumain ka ng 1 o 2 hiwa ng papaya ay siguradong lalambot ang iyong dumi. Kapag matamis ang papaya ay mas mabisa ito. May sangkap na papain ang papaya, isang enzyme na nakatutulong sa paglambot ng dumi. Mataas din sa vitamin C ang papaya kaya masustansya ito. Huwag lang sosobrahan ang pagkain at baka magtae ka naman.

3. Peras (Pears) – Ang peras ay mayaman sa fiber at sorbitol na makatutulong sa pagdumi. Ang fi-

ni Dr. Willie Ong

ber ay nagbibigay ng hugis (o bulk) sa dumi. Ang sorbitol naman ay nagbibigay ng tamis sa peras at naghahatak ng tubig sa loob ng bituka para lumambot ang dumi. Ayon kay Dr. Jay Hoecker ng Mayo Clinic, puwedeng bigyan ng peras ang mga sanggol at bata na hindi makarumi. Ang 2 hanggang 4 na onsa (ounce) ng katas ng peras ay maaaring makatulong sa pagdumi ng bata.

4. Prunes – Sa Pilipinas, makabibili tayo ng prune juice at dried prunes sa mga supermarkets. Ang prunes ay matagal nang lunas para sa pagtitibi. Tulad ng peras, may taglay na fiber, sorbitol at antioxidants ang prunes. Sa bawat kalahating baso ng prune juice (100 ml) may sangkap itong 6.1 grams ng sorbitol. Dahil dito, napapalambot ng prunes ang dumi. Ayon sa mga eksperto, may tulong din ang prunes sa buto at sa pag-iwas sa osteoporosis.

Kaya tandaan natin ang apat na prutas na nabanggit para maiwasan ang pagtitibi at maging malusog ang ating katawan.

Did You Know?

THESE BATS IN THAILAND ARE THE WORLD'S TINIEST MAMMALS

This should probably be on the list of cutest facts about the world. In the limestone caves of Sai Yok National Park are the world's tiniest bats (and mammals)! Bat soup jokes aside, aren't they adorable?
The details get even cuter — they grow up to 33mm and weigh only 2g. That's only 1mm bigger than Singapore's 50 cent coin!
They were first discovered in 1973 by Kitti Thonglongya, a Thai biologist, and are also known as Kitti's hog-nosed bat.

B.I.G. League-Cavite and 11th Lion's Cup Champions

Matingkad Basketball wins the inaugural season of Barangay Inter-Grassroots League-Cavite while Academy of St. John claims the 11th Season championship of Lion's Cup.

The preliminary games were held in Justinville Subdivision in Bacoor City and in The Village, Bayan Luma 3 Imus City. Both these venues helped in providing the youth of Cavite the avenue to play and show their games. Something grassroots sports is really good at, less fanfare, more practical and closer, as ever, to the barangay and neighborhoods.

The championship games were held at the GenTri Sports Complex, General Trias City.

The BIG League Cavite champions Matingkad Basketball and Coach J Hoops Academy will represent Cavite in the Regional Championships. The Top finishers from BIG L Batangas, Tuy-Batangas and Chosen Few will play against their Cavite counterparts.

BIG League 3x3 will be in the morning with 6 teams from Batangas and 2 teams from Cavite. This inaugural league has a good future ahead and will surely be supported by this column for the years to come.

Completing the final ranking of the Lion's Cup, we have perennial finalist and recently-crowned Bacoor City Meet Champions, Christian Values School as first runner-up. On second and third runners-up are Great Mercy Academy and Josiah Christian Values School, respectively.
