Climate inaction has spawned a global health crisis

MANY believe that global warming is a slow-burning fuse, that there is a considerable lag before its full impact is felt.

That flawed argument is one of the main reasons the world has put off clear, decisive action on preventing the planet from further heating up.

The mistaken perception persists that there is enough time to work out solutions. That is why we only spring into action when climate change hits home — droughts disrupting the food and water supply, floodwaters engulfing neighborhoods, and intense forest fires ravaging hillsides.

At the ongoing 30th meeting of the Conference of the Parties, or COP30, in Belem, Brazil, an initiative has been presented that focuses on warming as triggering a worldwide health catastrophe.

A special report published by the World Health Organization (WHO) and the Brazilian government indicated that extreme heat induced by climate change kills more than half a million people each year.

It also said one in 12 hospitals worldwide could face climate-related shutdowns.

“The climate crisis is a health crisis — not in the distant future, but here and now,” stressed WHO Director General Dr. Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus.

With global temperatures soaring above 1.5 degrees Celsius, 3.3 to 3.6 billion people are now highly vulnerable to climate impacts, WHO said.

During Europe’s scorching summer last year, more than 62,700 heat-related deaths were reported across 32 countries on the continent.

This year, more than 24,400 deaths have been blamed so far on heat exposure.

The WHO report highlighted deficiencies in health adaptation planning.

Among them:

- Only 54 percent of national health adaptation plans assess risks to health facilities.
- Fewer than 30 percent consider income disparities.
- Just 20 percent take gender into account.
- Less than 1 percent includes people with disabilities.

Dr. Marina Romanello, executive director of the Lancet Countdown at University College London, is convinced that “the solutions are at hand to avoid a climate catastrophe — and communities and local governments around the world are proving that progress is possible.”

“Rapidly phasing out fossil fuels in favor of clean renewable energy and efficient energy use remains the most powerful lever to slow climate change and protect lives,” Romanello said. “At the same time, shifting to healthier, climate-friendly diets and more sustainable agricultural systems would massively cut pollution, greenhouse gases and deforestation, potentially saving over 10 million lives a year.”

Released last October, the Lancet Countdown said the “continued overreliance on fossil fuels and failure to adapt to a heating world” are driving the climate-induced health crisis.

The report, produced in collaboration with WHO, found that 12 of 20 key indicators tracking health threats have reached record levels, showing how climate inaction is costing lives, straining health systems and undermining economies.

While progress has been made, WHO said coverage remains uneven, especially in least developed countries and small island states, which are the most at risk from climate change.

At COP30, a coalition of more than 35 philanthropies last week pledged $300 million to seek solutions at the intersection of climate and health.

The pledge could create the momentum, but a lot more needs to be done to make the initiative sustainable.

Ethel Maciel, COP30’s special envoy for health, maintained that hospitals and other health structures must be reinforced to cope with extreme events that will happen with increasing frequency.

Health professionals must be trained for “events that will be caused by what we are already experiencing in these climate changes.”

Research and innovation should be stepped up “to develop heat-resistant medicines and vaccines, cut pollution in health supply chains, and expand renewable energy use.”

As it is, climate inaction “is costing lives, straining health systems, and undermining economies.”

In his remarks during the opening of COP30, UN climate change executive secretary Simon Stiell summed up the challenge that lies ahead.

Humanity, Stiell said, “can only win this global climate fight if we connect stronger climate actions to people’s top priorities in their daily lives.

“And there are few higher priorities than our health, which makes this work at the climate-health nexus so crucial.”

The crisis is already upon us. We need a definitive response now.

Para Lumiit Ang Bilbil (Tiyan): Anong Gagawin?

Marami sa atin ang may problema sa lumalaking bilbil, lalo na pag nagkakaedad. Kung overweight o kulang sa ehersisyo ay puwede din lumaki ang bilbil. Ano ang ating magagawa para mapaliit ito?

Heto ang ilang payo para lumiit ang bilbil:

1. Uminom ng isang basong tubig bago kumain. Nakabubusog ang tubig at mas kaunti ang iyong makakakain.
2. Kumain ng mas madalas pero kaunti lamang. Ang isang saging o mansanas ay puwedeng pangmeryenda na.
3. Bawasan ang pagkain ng kanin. Kung dati-rati ay 2 tasang kanin, gawin na lang 1 tasang kanin.
4. Kumain ng mas mabagal. Kapag mabagal ka kumain, mas mararamdaman mo ang pagkabusog at mababawasan ang iyong makakain.
5. Mag-ehersisyo ng 3 hanggang 4 beses kada lingo. Subukang mag-aerobic exercise ng 30 minutos hanggang isang oras.
6. Palakasin ang masel sa tiyan. Mag-aral ng mga ehersisyo para lumakas ang tiyan, tulad ng stomach crunches.
7. Magkaroon ng tamang tindig (posture). Huwag maging kuba sa pag-upo at pagtayo.
8. Umiwas sa matatamis na inumin tulad ng soft drinks, iced tea at juices. Nakatataba ito at nakakadagdag sa laki ng bilbil.

9. Kumain ng almusal araw-araw. Kapag hindi ka nag-almusal, mas gugutumin ka pag dating ng tanghalian at mapaparami ang iyong makakain.

10. Bawasan ang pag-inom ng alak at beer. Nakalalaki iyan ng bilbil.

11. Bawasan ang pagkain ng maaalat. Ang asin at alat ay nagdudulot ng pagmamamas ng katawan.

12. Kumain ng 2 tasang gulay at 2 tasang prutas araw-araw. Umiwas sa matataba at mamantikang pagkain.

13. Maglakad ng madalas at umakyat ng 1 o 2 palapag ng hagdanan.

14. Bawasan ang stress at matulog ng sapat.

15. Maging masipag. Ituloy lang ang mabuting pamumuhay at regular na ehersisyo para hindi lumaki ang bilbil. Good luck po.

"True national progress extends beyond the capital," says CJ Lacsican, VP for Cities at Grab Philippines. "Cavite's proximity to Metro Manila makes it a prime example of the untapped potential within our provincial economies. We're dedicated to building the digital infrastructure and skills needed to connect local MSMEs to the wider digital world."

Grab's data underscores Cavite's digital boom, revealing a remarkable 72% year-over-year growth in its MSME community from 2023 to 2025. This surge has fueled a 152% spike in GrabFood delivery demand. What's more, Cavite now boasts 30% of all GrabFood 5-Star Eats merchants across Greater Manila, surpassing Bulacan, Laguna, and Rizal.

Entrepreneurs like Liz and Benjamin Rufino, owners of Sarios Restaurant, are already experiencing the transformative power of Grab's digital tools. "I made it a point to master every promotional tool Grab offered," shares Liz Rufino. "We started small with discounts and quickly scaled up as we saw the results. Our sales have since doubled, even tripled!"

The "Digital Diskarte" program includes:

- Merchant AI Assistant: Automates digital menu creation and promotional content within the GrabMerchant app.

- Tap & Scan To Pay: Transforms NFC-enabled smartphones into payment terminals, accepting credit card and QR-PH payments with Income Protection Coverage.

- Financial Tools: Access to Merchant Quick Cash Loans and Self-Serve Ads for in-app promotions.

This initiative aligns seamlessly with the DICT's national digitalization agenda, solidifying the government's commitment to creating digital livelihoods for Filipinos nationwide. #papi2025

Citronella Convention Culminates with a Call for Collaboration and Action

LAL-LO, CAGAYAN — The 1st Regional Citronella Convention held in Lal-lo, Cagayan concluded on a hopeful and inspiring note, bringing together local leaders, scientists, and community members united by one goal — to strengthen the citronella industry in the region.

In her heartfelt message, Hon. Maria Olive B. Pascual, Lal-lo Vice Mayor and President of the Rural Improvement Club (RIC), praised the efforts of women and farmers behind the thriving citronella movement.

"Gusto ko lang sabihing hindi mahirap mangarap pero kailangan meron kang gawin para ito ay makamit mo — at iyan po ang ginagawa ng Rural Improvement Club (RIC) members natin — ang backbone ng citronella industry dito sa Lal-lo," she said, recognizing the RIC's hands-on dedication to community development.

Engr. Maria Teresa B. De Guzman, DOST Assistant Secretary for Countryside Development, urged participants to turn lessons into tangible actions.

"Let us prove that through science and collaboration, we can build a greener, healthier, and more prosperous countryside for all," she emphasized. "Plant those citronella saplings, refine that oil, develop that product, draft those supportive policies, and continue this network of collaboration beyond this convention hall."

Capping the event, Dr. Virginia G. Bilgera, DOST

Region 02 Regional Director, highlighted the importance of partnerships in sustaining initiatives like this.

"DOST cannot do this alone, we need partners and that is why we are here together. This is not just the end, this is just a beginning. Congratulations to everyone who became part of this regional event!"

As the curtains closed, the convention left participants inspired — a testament that through science, unity, and community spirit, Lal-lo's citronella industry is set to bloom stronger than ever.
